SAFEGUARD YOUR FAMILY

The bustling lifestyle typical of urban environments such as Lagos often requires the assistance of domestic staff, especially for working couples with young children.

As someone who employs domestic help, it is crucial to prioritize their health status to protect the well-being of your household.

Domestic Staff screening tests serve as a crucial health assessment. Although it is a basic check-up, this is to ensure the well-being of household staff before they integrate into the home environment.

Beyond assessing their health, these medical screenings provide valuable insights into the staff's overall health status, potential threats, and risks they may face. They empower them to identify any health issues and plan treatments if necessary.
